

Becoming the member of Georgian Nutrition Society will give opportunities to define standards for the training, practice and continuing professional development of nutrition professionals, establish contacts with fellow professionals and advance standards of nutrition competence

- ❖ Access to Registrants-only section of GNS website
- ❖ Registrants-only communications and dissemination of research work to fellow members and wider audience
- ❖ Monthly information on scientific conferences and reduced fees for the GNS conferences and training
- ❖ Public listing on GNS of registered status and contact details enabling everyone to find a professional nutritionist whose recommendation they can trust.
- ❖ Use of registrants-only reading room in GNS office at 78 Uznadze st. Tbilisi

To become a member, you should

1. Fill in the application
2. Pay the membership fees
3. Provide CV preferably generated from the GMUS system (Georgian & English)

Membership:

Full member

Qualified individuals having at least three years' experience of working in nutrition, nutritional science, public health, sports medicine or any related subjects – 40 lari. (Retired members fees -10 lari)

Associated member

Graduate with the relevant degree or interest in nutrition but has yet to acquire significant experience of the practical application of this knowledge – 25 lari

Student member:

Undergraduates with specific interest in Nutrition and related subjects -10 lari

Honorary member:

Given by the society for outstanding contribution to nutrition or related subjects.

Member organisations:

Organisations with the interest in nutrition and nutritional science and related subjects – 500 lari

Members rights:

- Take part in all the events organized by the GNS;
- Access to all the publications and informative materials by the Society as well as the organizational-methodical documentation;
- Participation in planning and discussing of the society's activities at all levels;
- The right to use society's property;
- Participation in the governing and control bodies of the society and all it's activities;
- Free to leave the society any time.